DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-2, 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,221,111 issued to Younger.

Younger teaches in Figures 1-4 and respective portions of the specification of: a skateboard tension strap (see embodiments for element 18 including 18c, 18h, 18g for example; see also Col. 5, lines 30-56 and Col. 6, lines 4-5) for temporarily connecting a skateboard to the body of a user (Figure 4) comprising:

a waist belt (Figure 4) adapted to be worn by the user around his or her waist, tension strap (embodiments for element 18) means for resiliently and adjustably connecting said waist belt directly to said skateboard (tether 31), whereby tension may be maintained between the skateboard and the waist belt without requiring the user to hold said tension strap means with a hand (see for example Figure 3H where tension is maintained between the strap and the waist belt by tether 31 and resilient element 18H), so that both of the user's hands are free for stunts, said tension strap means having a first end (20) adapted to be anchored to said skateboard and a second end (Figure 4) for adjustably connecting said tension strap means to said waist belt (via elements 31, 32 and 34), and connecting means (32 and 34) for adjustably connecting said second end of said tension strap means to said waist belt.

In regards to claim 2, see at least col. 5, lines 24-47.

In regards to claim 4, see at least Figures 1 and 2.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Younger, as disclosed above in reference to claims 1-2 and 4.

Younger discloses the claimed invention including a waist belt (Figure 4) and a tension strap (18c, 18h, 18G) both of which have a width. Younger discloses the claimed invention except for stating if logos or designs are accommodated on the width of tension strap or on the waist belt. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to provide a design or logo on the width of the tension strap or waist belt to allow the user to personalize the device according to the user's individual preferences.

3. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Younger, as applied to claims 1 and 2 above, in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,702,328 issued to Malleis et al.

Younger discloses the claimed invention including teaching a strap (31) whose length can be adjusted (see stub end of loop position by a clasp shown at the end of element (30) in Figure 3A). Younger does not show a plurality of sliding loops for adjusting the position of the strap.

Malleis et al. teach in Figures 1-6 and respective portions of the specification of: a strap for connecting a waist belt to a sporting board. Figure 2, shows a buckle that contains a plurality of sliding loops for adjusting the length and tension in the strap. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to provide a buckle, as taught by Malleis et al. in place of the clasp taught by Younger to allow the strap's length to be adjusted to accommodate a variety of user heights.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection, detailed above.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
